

Carolyn Shimmin is the Public and Patient Engagement Lead at the George and Fay Yee Centre for Healthcare Innovation. In this role, she helps lead CHI's strategy on patient and public involvement in health research decision-making. Previous experience includes stakeholder engagement, research, writing and reporting on various health policy issues including mental health, addictions, trauma and the sexual exploitation of youth. Areas of interest include patient and community engagement, trauma-informed approaches, intersectional analysis, and knowledge translation. Carolyn has a Bachelor of Journalism Combined Honours Political Science and a Master of Gender Studies. She is currently a PhD student in the University of Manitoba's Community Health Sciences program.